Introduction:

Every front-line employee needs a solid grounding in 'customer service' skills. As can be expected in this course, the subjects covered tackle most of what is needed by anyone interacting directly with internal or external customers. This course will cover everything from the most appropriate behavior and communication with customers, to tools and techniques used to analyze the level of service and improve it to ensure customer delight.

Program Objectives:

At the end of this program the participants will be able to:

- Define customer service and break it down to its most basic dimensions.
- Explain the critical link between 'attitude' and 'technique' to consistently deliver an excellent level of service.
- Use a variety of tools such as 'gap analysis' and 'RATER' to provide a level of service that is second to none.
- Analyze basic behavioral patterns of different customer personalities and the best way to deal with them.
- Discuss and practice the techniques of effective communication skills with customers.
